About

I'm passionate about digital editorial content. Mixing my creative background with clear marketing goals, I love to explore storytelling techniques behind brands to build activity that is of true value to customers, whether that's in developing digital strategy, driving e-commerce sales, supporting offline events or managing cross-channel projects.

Having worked for a mix of both brands and agencies, from high street to luxury, I've developed a balance of creative and business experience to adapt to each new project. My love of all things fashion, beauty and travel has lead me around the world, working on international projects with companies in Milan, London, Amsterdam, Paris and New York.

I'm a natural self-starter, always looking for new inspiration and pushing myself to broaden my knowledge.
