About

Creative director, stylist, writer, and founder of d'Arte Studios. I am originally from Lisbon, Portugal, but moved to London in 2020 to further my studies and pursue a career in fashion.

Creating has always come easy to me. I've often been told I was a child with an overactive imagination and very much feel that it has followed me into adulthood, allowing me to think up innovative and oftentimes shocking works of art.

I believe fashion, just like any artform, should indulge in experimentation and playfulness, so that is what I bring into every one of my projects.
