About

I am passionate and committed to sustainability in every sphere of my life, aiming to make our world a better place to live in, especially for future generations. The sustainability studies I majored in helped me develop critical thinking and boosted my curiosity, while allowing me to deepen my knowledge on international environmental law. With several years of experience in selling and advertising I am a dynamic and results oriented person, able to maintain excellent customer service. My strong communication and negotiation skills, along with the different languages which I speak, allow me to perfectly fit in an international and always challenging work environment. As a result of living in different countries, such as Austria, Sweden, Germany, England and The Netherlands, I developed an open and flexible mind setting, which makes me prone to problem solving
