About

As a young creative, my competency lies in three axle forward-thinking, being resourceful, and connecting dots in Service Design and System Thinking. I thrive at the intersection of traditional narratives, cutting-edge technology, and conscious design.

Finishing my Master's student in Design Research at ENS Paris-Saclay, I explored emerging technologies and their potential to reshape our interaction with the digital world. My background in Craft-based Product Design from IICD, Jaipur, has equipped me with a deep understanding of materials, techniques, and the value of collaborating.

My diverse experience, spanning from immersive installations to decentralized social networks, showcases my ability to bridge the gap between the physical and meta spheres. I am committed to crafting meaningful, user-centred solutions that address real-world challenges, particularly in the circular economy.

Let's connect and explore new avenues for design that create a positive impact on our world. Feel free to explore my portfolio to see examples of my work.
