About

An ambitious creative with a passion for developing and marketing distinctive brands.

Co-founder and CMO of Sequel, a luxury marketing agency based between London and the South of France. We help renowned travel, hospitality & wellness brands "define, create and elevate" compelling stories, through content creation, social media marketing and PR.

I specialise in using social media and influencer marketing to grow digital communities and create powerful User-Generated Content (UGC). My expertise lies mainly in the wellness and travel spaces, with clients including Rosewood London, Four Seasons Hotels, Puresport and Zooki.

Pooling creative, marketing and PR teams under one roof, Sequel offers a comprehensive solution for luxury brands looking to stand out. We not only devise and market brand stories, but create the visual assets used to tell them. With a graceful and distinctive aesthetic, Sequel caters for brands seeking "social media first" content along with marketing and PR campaigns that deliver growth.

Prior to co-founding Sequel in 2019, I achieved a First Class law degree and Post-graduate degree in Trade Mark Law, before working as a PQ Trade Mark Attorney. In this role, I managed and advised on the global trade mark and design portfolios of luxury brands such as Mulberry, Chanel, Seven For All Mankind and Assos. I am therefore able to marry this experience with a creative & data-driven approach, to facilitate impactful brand-building for Sequel and its clients.
